Fall Contemplative Services Offer Peace

Oasis

Tuesdays, Sept. 12–Nov. 14

Like finding a beautiful spring in a dry and desolate land, this service offers a much-needed quiet place in the midst of our busy and demanding lives. The spiritual practices observed during each Oasis service allows attendees to pursue God's presence in a unique way.

Rev. Victor Resendiz is preparing for another season of this weekly contemplative worship service. Previously offered on Wednesday to provide a quiet moment in the middle of the week, the service has moved to Tuesday to better meet the needs of church and community members. Oasis will still invite contemplation and prayer through music, reflection and Holy communion.

Resendiz believes the purpose of the 30-minute service is to lean into a time of solitude, soul tending and stillness.

"The difference in this service, from the traditional, is that it allows you to listen to God's Holy Spirit guiding you verses us saying a prayer to talk to God," Resendiz shared. "So, you have more of an open disposition to God's Spirit. If we pay attention to the gospels, this is exactly what Jesus would practice when he would do busy work in ministry—he would also take time to be in silence. So, in the contemplative tradition, in silence, this is where transformation happens. This is where change of heart happens; this is where renewing of the mind happens."

Each service usually includes a time of reflection, a space for silence, and a short devotional. Spiritual prayer practices are also implemented. They include centering prayer (Christian meditation) and praying with Scripture (lectio divina). Music, visuals, art, and poetry are also used to better understand topics of faith. Before exiting the service, communion is offered to everyone in attendance.

White's Chapel Presents

'Powerful Productions' Opens Doors for Artistic Experiences

In the next few weeks, the White's Chapel congregation and community will be hearing and seeing many references about a new initiative on campus called White's Chapel Presents Powerful Productions.

There is an enormous amount of excitement about this upcoming feature. "This is a new program begun by our church to bring the finest quality of production and artists to our community of faith," explained Dr. Arnold Rawls, Artist in Residence. "A wide variety of entertainment is being sought to meet the great diversity of interests within our congregation."

Rawls, a new addition to the White's Chapel Music Department, is the dynamic personality leading the new program. Rawls comes with extensive experience in the performing arts.

Video Focuses on Chandler's Hope

A new video has been produced to educate the community about Chandler's Hope, an addiction ministry at White's Chapel. The video seeks to capture the heart of the Chandler's Hope ministry through genuine stories told by some of the current leaders. "Our desire is for our congregation, our community, and anyone that does not know where to start their recovery route can look for us to accompany them," said

Rev. Victor Resindez, Pastor for Spiritual Formation. The ministry, established in 2016 in memory of Chandler McKellar, has evolved through the years. It was initially created to be a resource for families struggling with addiction and seeking information and support to address the challenges that come with those struggles. The ministry itself struggled through COVID, as did many agencies; ironically at a time when the need for information and support was at an all time high. Since that time, the ministry has grown from its main identification with resources and education to fully embrace its initial goal of being a

We Remember...

By Dr. John McKellar

I can't believe it's been 22 years since the attack on and collapse of the twin towers at the World Trade Center, and the Pentagon attack and plane crash that followed. I've tried through the years to put that awful day in my rear-view mirror and move ahead, trying to forget the horrors it provoked in all of our minds.

My wife Debbie was recently cleaning out some files at home and ran across this essay. She told me that for the 10 years following the attacks, she had the honor of reading this to the entire school, followed by a moment of silence to honor the victims.

There is so much wisdom to live by today in this essay... words we should live by on a daily basis. I thought this week would be a good time for us all to remember these stories.

How very true this is.

The LITTLE Things

As you might know, the head of the company survived 9/11 because his son started kindergarten.

Another fellow was alive because it was his turn to bring donuts.

One woman was late because her alarm clock didn't go off.

One was late because of getting stuck on the New Jersey Turnpike because of an auto accident.

One of them missed the bus.

One spilled food on her clothes and had to take time to change.

One's car wouldn't start.

One went back inside to answer the telephone.

One had a child that dawdled and didn't get ready as soon as he should have.

One couldn't get a taxi.

The one that struck me was the man who put on a new pair of shoes that morning, took the various means to get to work but before he got there, he developed a blister on his foot. He stopped at a drug store to buy a Band-Aid. That is why he is alive today.

Now when I am stuck in traffic, missing the elevator, turn back to get a phone I left at home.... all those little things that annoy me....

I think to myself, this is exactly where God wants me to be at this very moment.

Next time your morning seems to be going wrong, the children are slow getting dressed, you can't seem to find your car keys, you hit every traffic light, don't get mad or frustrated.

God is at work watching over you.

May God continue to bless you with all those annoying little things and may you remember their possible purpose.

This is sure something to think about! God bless you as we continue our journeys!!

"In our faith walk, this is part of our spiritual formation," Resendiz said. "When we're living constantly in the surface of life, which is responsibilities, the roles we play—very important—but we run on fumes, and we wear out. So, allowing a rhythm where we can slow down... and allow restoration, allow time in the presence of God with intentionality, refreshes our soul... it refreshes our spirit to allow us to go back to the surface and take care of our responsibilities. That's the rhythm of life that, again, is very evident in the life of Jesus. And, as followers of Christ, I encourage people to pay attention to it."

Throughout the summer, Oasis hosted about 20 people per service, but Resendiz is hopeful to reach more people in need of the peaceful reprieve that Oasis offers.

"I would encourage people to come and experience it for themselves," Resendiz said. "This is more of a space offering something to them individually... we are receiving. To experience that, as part of our faith experience or faith journey, I think it is pivotal, so that's why I encourage it. So, yes, come and try it!"

Oasis will be offered every Tuesday beginning Sept. 12 at noon in Grace Chapel. Participants are encouraged to bring something to write with and a journal if they have one. Paper will also be provided for any observed spiritual practices. All are welcome to attend; registration is not required. For more information, contact Rev. Victor Resendiz.

Taizé Wednesdays Through Nov. 14

Worship, joy and sorrow often pour out of our hearts through song, and the Taizé worship service at WC uses music to capture the emotion behind thoughtful, contemplative prayers.

Taizé ("tah-zay") worship is a form of Christian meditation based on songs that are prayers. The simple and repetitive songs are based on Scripture and/or important biblical ideals.

"The simplicity allows you to move past wondering what the next words will be into a deeper, inner reflection," leader and longtime member Rev. Dr. Larry Duggins shared. "Taizé worship focuses on building a deeper spiritual connection with the Holy Spirit. Taizé worship was developed after WW2 by a group of Christian friends in Taizé, France—a little town between Paris and Lyon. The friends formed a monastic community, and developed the songs so that visitors could sing along with them in services."

Keeping those same traditions, the service at White's Chapel is quiet and contemplative in nature, and there is no traditional sermon. Instead, participants sing together and move from song to song without spoken instruction. The Scripture is the only element of the service that is read or spoken. A time of silence is observed by the group, allowing each individual space to reflect within themselves. Then, there is an opportunity to light candles for prayer needs.

"Each week, we pray about issues in the world and our community, for our church and for our government, all in song," Duggins said. "We sing the Lord's Prayer and conduct the Lord's Supper without spoken words."

Duggins has been involved with Taizé at White's Chapel for the past 12 years and has been a member of the church for the past 30 years. He has been on staff at various times throughout his ministry and is currently involved in the Methodist Collegiate Church. Since his first year, the Taizé worship service has grown, and its participants have developed their own supportive community.

"This service is probably different from any other form of worship you have experienced," Duggins said. "It is a chance to go deeper, to sing and pray in such a way that the Holy Spirit is invited to speak into your life. For many, it is a time of peace in a hectic week... I have watched people grow more deeply into their faith through Taizé worship. We have had funerals and baptisms in our Taizé worshipping community because, for some, this form of worship helps them connect with God in a life-giving way. [For the first fall service, we sung] 'See I am near, says the Lord. See, I make all things new'. That song reminds us that the Spirit is always with us, working through us in the world."

On Wednesday, Aug. 30, the hour-long service resumed for the fall semester. It will continue being offered each Wednesday night at 6 p.m. in Walton Chapel through mid-November (and select weeks in December). While there is a five-minute period of silence observed in the middle of the service, Duggins assures that people of all ages—even kids—are welcome. You don't need to be a professional vocalist to attend, either. New participants are welcome throughout the year. For more information about Taizé, please contact Rev. Dr. Larry Duggins.

"As modern people, we spend so much time in our heads," he said. "This service is designed to give us time in our heart and our soul. Give it a try!"

"Our focus is to hold private and respectful space for all who come to us, and to provide in-house resources like the ongoing 12-step meetings, Al-Anon meetings, counseling center, and our designated companions, called Chandler's Friends," said Resendiz.

The ministry also provides book studies, education on substance awareness, and scheduled education workshops. There is no age limit for any of the support opportunities offered by the program.

Leaders strive to relay the reassurance that "we are the BELOVED and that GOD'S GRACE WILL NEVER FORSAKE US."

A Chandler's Friend is someone who can walk with those looking for help and don't know where to start. A Chandler's Friend will sit with your story and then work with the family to identify what may be the first steps toward recovery. Chandler's Friends go through a specific training and often have already walked the road of recovery personally or with family members or loved ones.

"I have sung with major opera companies, symphonies and musical theater organizations," he recanted. "It is my hope that, with my network of friends and colleagues in the business, it will be a bit easier to get people scheduled to come to the 'hinterland' of Southlake."

A graduate of the University of Oklahoma, Rawls has indeed been a professional singer (primarily in Opera) and is also passionate about handbell music. His influence has already been notable in the WC Music program.

The tenor has "delighted audiences with his unique combination of vocal and dramatic skills in performances ranging from art song to opera." He has been hailed for being a "powerful, clarion-sounding tenor," a "firm, pliant lyric tenor with ringing high notes," as well as having a "flair for acting." His Radamès thrilled audiences as he "rose to the occasion, singing the famous 'Celeste Aida' with a creamy tone and a beautiful sense of Italian lyricism. It included a dazzling high B-flat that seemed to ring for an eternity." (Omaha World Herald)

Rawls has traveled the world with his music, including the role of Radamès in "Aida" with Opera Australia in Sydney, Manrico and Calaf in "Turandot" with the Bregenz Festspiele in Austria. Additionally he took the stage as Bacchus in "Ariadne auf Naxos" and Erik in "Die fliegende Holländer," both at the Theater St. Gallen in Switzerland, and Roberto in "Le Ville" and Apollo in "Daphne" with Oper Frankfurt. Domestically, Rawls has performed in a plethora of Opera Houses (including the Metropolitan Opera) in Chicago, New York, Santa Fe, Dallas, Kansas City, Pensacola, Florida, Grand Rapids, Omaha, Seattle, and Indianapolis.

White's Chapel Presents Powerful Productions has become Rawls' new passion.

"When I was asked to join the full-time Music Ministry staff at White's Chapel developing the [WC Presents Powerful Productions] initiative was one of the things I was tasked to do," he said.

The program is off to an excellent start. A concert by Sandi Patty—five-time Grammy award winner and one of the most recognized voices in all of sacred music—is scheduled to come to White's Chapel on Oct. 12. Other programs are in the works for the 2023-24 season including a first: White's Chapel will present a family musical in the spring that will draw from the talent of the church. "The Music Man" will be fully staged and accompanied by members of the WC Orchestra.

Rawls dreams of WC Presents Powerful Productions being a draw for the entire family and one that will honor God as well as complement the church and community.

He has been hailed for having a "powerful, clarion-sounding tenor..."

Leadership Orientation

Everything is in the air and opportunities for worship, fellowship, missions and outreach, Christian education, food, and fun abound! But the visioning and implementation for such a vast array of ministries doesn't just happen. In fact, without the dedicated leadership of our boards and teams and the participation of our volunteers, White's Chapel would have to significantly reduce the number of classes, events, and service ministries it offers. So, first, a big THANK YOU to all who serve in a variety of capacities so that we can continue to make more deeply committed followers of the way of Jesus Christ!

Secondly, a big WELCOME to those who are considering answering their call to a leadership role at White's Chapel. Whether you are new to the church or newly nudged to serve in a leadership capacity, we encourage and welcome your interest in further exploring the many ways one can serve as a leader at White's Chapel by joining us on Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 6:30 p.m. for our fall Leadership Orientation. The presentation will be in Rawlins Lecture Hall, located in the Adult Education Building, and it will provide important information on leadership qualifications and opportunities as well as a forum for your questions. For more information or to register, scan the QR code on the graphic above.

One can serve as a leader at White's Chapel by joining us on Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 6:30 p.m.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED!
EACH WEDNESDAY | 4:30 - 6 P.M.

Our Wednesday Night Fellowship Dinners started off with a bang, and they continue to be well attended by people of all ages! We've had lots of guests joining us for dinner and programming, so volunteers are needed to serve in the food buffet lines on Wednesday nights.

If you are willing to help, please contact Joey P. at jpecararo@whiteschapel.org and additional information will be provided!
